We, therefore, in law'ul hours. promptly withdraw the charge; and declare our hear felt regret that circumstances induced us to feel justified in making it; and condemn afreely as our enemies can do the hasty temper which gave vent to epithets of denunciation against "No Stockhold r." which none can wish unspoken more than ourself." If the Mississippi editor be the author I feel very confident he will not refuse to claim the article, should circum-tances seem to require it. This conviction is based upon the fact that the editor is a highminded and chivalric gentleman.

As to the impression that "Commerce is UN-HFALTHY," ["the imputation" alluded to by do not recollect to have heard that the city of day at 10 o clock A. M. Commerce bore that reputation at this place.-Such an opinion may have been entertained. Horel. but if so, it has never met my ear. The citizens here, if I mistken not, are generally ignorant of the situation of this embryo city. To be sure, some of the older inlabitants of Memphimay have seen it, perhaps, "cover d with wa ter, ' in times gone by; but very few have taken the trouble to examine its prospects since the enterprizing and indefatigable Hernando Company have improved it so much. A deluge dinary freshet could.

The peculiar concurrence of circum-tancewhich induced Mr. Dooley to furnish me as the author of "An Observer," would, I am willing to confess, have naturally inclined any one to the same impression in reference to the authormy name to the editor through no bad or un friend y motive. Friendly relations have subsisted between Mr. D and my elf, for severa years past, and I cannot now think that he is anxious 'o disturb them, or unjustly misuse my | No brands discoverable.

name and reputation. In conclusion I would remark that I have never, in my numbers upon the "Hernand. Bank and city of Commerce." published in the "Marshall County Republican," and copied ito other Mississiopi papers, undertaken to lav ish unmerited abuse upon the couzens of Memphis. Indeed, in discussing the merits of these projects, I have studiously avoided all ailu-ion to this place, quite as much as I could consistently with the character of the sulpets treat ed of Feeling somewhat indentified with the works of internal improvement in that quarter I fe . privieged, as a free citizen and free thinker, to express my humble thoughts upon them in a Mississippi naner.
